

Owingsville Outlook.

OUTLOOK PUBL. CO., Publishers,
OWINGSVILLE, KENTUCKY

You Must Hustle.
"Hustle" is a word that has come into very general use of late, and is used to express vigorous earnest effort to accomplish a definite purpose. It is not a very elegant word, but it is very expressive. It means, according to Webster, "to force one's way." This seems to be the spirit and demand of this age of fierce competition in business and the professions. If you want business, a desire to attain success in any of the learned professions, you must push for it, or you will be left far in the rear. You cannot sit still and expect wealth and reputation to seek you out. Some apparently have come to the conclusion that in 99 cases out of 100 they were "the architects of their own fortunes." In other words, they had to hustle. So has it been with all those who are known as self-made men. They had not the advantages that come from wealth, education, social position. But they had the inspiring ambition that knew "no such word as fail," and whether seeking success in business, or reputation in a profession, or distinction in statesmanship, they labored unceasingly with that end in view. They rested not until their ambition was gratified. So in all the ordinary walks of life, if you expect success, you must hustle for it with hand and brain. Don't expect others to supply your wants. Supply them yourself. The world is before you, and you have the same opportunity as others have had. Only improve it.

Gladstone's Books.
Gladstone's activity as a book collector is interestingly discussed in an article on his library in the Nineteenth Century. He took to reading at a very early age, and, like many another boy, was enthralled by "Pillgrim's Progress" and the "Arabian Nights." In his school days, and indeed through his whole career, he was an eager student of Homer. Late in life he confessed an enormous debt to Aristotle, Augustine, Dante and Butler. When he was 50 years old his growing library necessitated the addition of a new wing to the castle at Hawarden. Yet he was "by no means a rapid book-buyer." For rare books, first editions and elaborate bindings he had no special interest, though he was glad enough to get them. "Second-hand catalogues" rained in by every post, and were always carefully scanned and marked for immediate purchase. Mr. Gladstone's tastes ran strongly to religion, theology, and such kindred topics as history and philosophy. He was, in fact, sometimes accused of being more of a bookworm than a statesman. Whenever he was on his feet, he was on his feet.

English vs. American Railways.
The upshot of a comparison between English and American railways is that each country has provided itself with the system that, broadly considered, answers its own needs the best, and that, when all circumstances are taken into account, neither has much to learn from the other. Certain great defects stand out in each: English railway financing and American railway carelessness are both deserving of censure. Yet these defects, says Ray Morris, in Atlantic Monthly, are quite explainable in their outgrowth from the physical conditions at hand, and they are not amenable to any off-hand remedy. Likewise, certain points of special attractiveness, such as the English baggage system and the American luxury of through travel, have arisen from a complicated set of local circumstances, and could not be transplanted unless all the circumstances were transplanted as well. Most forcible of all is the impression gained by such a study that the fundamental belief, the very creed and doctrine of one country, as regards the economics of its railway working, may not be so much as discussed in another, where the same ultimate problem is gotten at in a wholly different way.

The city of Canton possesses the strangest street in the world. It is roofed in with glazed paper fastened on bamboo, and contains more signboards to the square foot than any street in any other country. It contains no other shops but those of apothecaries and dentists. Appropriately enough, it is called Physic Street.

All traditions to the contrary notwithstanding, the graduate, in a vast majority of cases, is a shy and modest young person.

English army officers are threatened with deprivation of their awe-inspiring single eyeglasses. What have they done to merit this terrible punishment?

Germany is experimenting with a new automatic repeating rifle capable of firing five shots in ten seconds. If Spain adopts it, it will merely mean a greater waste of lead.

American can no longer be assured that railway traveling in England is safer than staying at home.

An Amherst professor says the men of the future will be a race of weaklings if present educational methods are not changed. He insists that there must be more manual labor and less book work. If he can persuade the any-body to work with his hands simply for the purpose of giving some future man a strong constitution he will be entitled to all the medals available and a bar relief, at least.

It will be a lock canal, after all, and will hold the key.

WATER FROM THE ROCK

SIXTH in Cloud and Pillar Series
A STORY OF THE WILDERNESS JOURNEY BY THE HEAVENLY PEOPLE
By the "Highway and Byway" Preacher
(Copyright, 1904, by the author, W. B. Eades.)
Scripture Authority:—Exodus 17:1-7.

SERMONETTE.
"That Rock was Christ."—1 Cor. 10:4.

1. We come to Rehoboth at some time or other. On the man-side side Rehoboth stands for the place of dire need; of murmuring and unbelief; of the limitation of God's power; nay, more, of utter forgetfulness of all his past mercies and blessings, and failure to turn to him for help.

2. The Godward side, it is the place of the Rock—the Rock which Paul declared prefigured the character and office work of the blessed Christ. "That Rock was Christ" that is, it typifies the Christ.

3. In the value of the blessing which gushed forth from the rock, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

4. In the method employed to secure that blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

5. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

6. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

7. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

8. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

9. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

10. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

11. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

12. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

13. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

14. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

15. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

16. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

17. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

18. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

19. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

20. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

21. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

22. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

23. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

24. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

25. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

26. In the unlikeliness of the source of the blessing, the Rock was smitten, even as the Christ was smitten.

them, recalling past blessings and the deliverances God had wrought, they cried out in the bitterness and hardness of their hearts that God had forgotten them, and that if he Moses would prove his right to leadership he must then and there satisfy their thirst.

"Didst thou not sweeten the waters at Marah?" they cried. "Why then canst thou not give us water here? Where is thy rod with which thou didst divide the waters of the Red sea? Show what thou canst do with that same rod here in the wilderness!"

And when he rebuked them sharply, they cried out the more vehemently, declaring that it was for this purpose that he had brought them into the wilderness that they might perish of thirst with their little ones and their cattle. It was useless for him to point to the Cloud and to remind them that God was in their midst. "They would not listen and at last in despair he had gone apart by himself and cried unto the Lord, saying:

"O Lord, what shall I do unto this people? They shall stone me if I stand before them; they shall smite me if I do not; and yet thou hast said, 'I will stand before thee upon the rock in Horeb; and thou shalt smite the rock, and there shall come water out of it, that the people may drink.'"

And in the face of the derision and the angry complaining of the people, Moses had gathered the elders together and went forth with them to the rock. There it had stood rugged and forbidding. How was it that the hard, dry, cold rock could pour forth its life-giving waters? But in the face of the opposition and the doubt of those with him, Moses had gone bravely and boldly forward and when they had come to the rock he had bowed his head reverently. Then was it that a strange thing happened, for the Cloud, which up to this time had rested over the camp, came and stood upon the brow of the great rock, and as he lifted his eyes Moses knew that the Lord was there to show forth his marvelous grace and power.

Behind him was a people perishing for water. Shut in the wilderness there was no escape. No human aid could succeed. They could not go back. To go forward meant death on the burning sands. But before him there on the rock was the glory of God's presence.

In that moment a new thrill of gladness had stirred his heart, and while the elders gathered about him had watched expectantly, he had reached forth his hand and with the rod struck the rock, at the same time calling upon God and reminding him of his promise to send forth a stream of refreshing water from the hard, flinty rock.

From the overshadowing Cloud had gushed the flaming finger of God, and forth had gushed the life-giving waters. Overcome by the majesty and glory of the scene, the elders had fallen on their faces to the ground, but as the spiritual waters gushed forth, they realized that the Lord was with them, and that he would satisfy their thirst.

They had been a people perishing for water. Shut in the wilderness there was no escape. No human aid could succeed. They could not go back. To go forward meant death on the burning sands. But before him there on the rock was the glory of God's presence.

In that moment a new thrill of gladness had stirred his heart, and while the elders gathered about him had watched expectantly, he had reached forth his hand and with the rod struck the rock, at the same time calling upon God and reminding him of his promise to send forth a stream of refreshing water from the hard, flinty rock.

From the overshadowing Cloud had gushed the flaming finger of God, and forth had gushed the life-giving waters. Overcome by the majesty and glory of the scene, the elders had fallen on their faces to the ground, but as the spiritual waters gushed forth, they realized that the Lord was with them, and that he would satisfy their thirst.

They had been a people perishing for water. Shut in the wilderness there was no escape. No human aid could succeed. They could not go back. To go forward meant death on the burning sands. But before him there on the rock was the glory of God's presence.

In that moment a new thrill of gladness had stirred his heart, and while the elders gathered about him had watched expectantly, he had reached forth his hand and with the rod struck the rock, at the same time calling upon God and reminding him of his promise to send forth a stream of refreshing water from the hard, flinty rock.

From the overshadowing Cloud had gushed the flaming finger of God, and forth had gushed the life-giving waters. Overcome by the majesty and glory of the scene, the elders had fallen on their faces to the ground, but as the spiritual waters gushed forth, they realized that the Lord was with them, and that he would satisfy their thirst.

They had been a people perishing for water. Shut in the wilderness there was no escape. No human aid could succeed. They could not go back. To go forward meant death on the burning sands. But before him there on the rock was the glory of God's presence.

In that moment a new thrill of gladness had stirred his heart, and while the elders gathered about him had watched expectantly, he had reached forth his hand and with the rod struck the rock, at the same time calling upon God and reminding him of his promise to send forth a stream of refreshing water from the hard, flinty rock.

From the overshadowing Cloud had gushed the flaming finger of God, and forth had gushed the life-giving waters. Overcome by the majesty and glory of the scene, the elders had fallen on their faces to the ground, but as the spiritual waters gushed forth, they realized that the Lord was with them, and that he would satisfy their thirst.

They had been a people perishing for water. Shut in the wilderness there was no escape. No human aid could succeed. They could not go back. To go forward meant death on the burning sands. But before him there on the rock was the glory of God's presence.

In that moment a new thrill of gladness had stirred his heart, and while the elders gathered about him had watched expectantly, he had reached forth his hand and with the rod struck the rock, at the same time calling upon God and reminding him of his promise to send forth a stream of refreshing water from the hard, flinty rock.

From the overshadowing Cloud had gushed the flaming finger of God, and forth had gushed the life-giving waters. Overcome by the majesty and glory of the scene, the elders had fallen on their faces to the ground, but as the spiritual waters gushed forth, they realized that the Lord was with them, and that he would satisfy their thirst.

They had been a people perishing for water. Shut in the wilderness there was no escape. No human aid could succeed. They could not go back. To go forward meant death on the burning sands. But before him there on the rock was the glory of God's presence.

In that moment a new thrill of gladness had stirred his heart, and while the elders gathered about him had watched expectantly, he had reached forth his hand and with the rod struck the rock, at the same time calling upon God and reminding him of his promise to send forth a stream of refreshing water from the hard, flinty rock.

From the overshadowing Cloud had gushed the flaming finger of God, and forth had gushed the life-giving waters. Overcome by the majesty and glory of the scene, the elders had fallen on their faces to the ground, but as the spiritual waters gushed forth, they realized that the Lord was with them, and that he would satisfy their thirst.

They had been a people perishing for water. Shut in the wilderness there was no escape. No human aid could succeed. They could not go back. To go forward meant death on the burning sands. But before him there on the rock was the glory of God's presence.

In that moment a new thrill of gladness had stirred his heart, and while the elders gathered about him had watched expectantly, he had reached forth his hand and with the rod struck the rock, at the same time calling upon God and reminding him of his promise to send forth a stream of refreshing water from the hard, flinty rock.

From the overshadowing Cloud had gushed the flaming finger of God, and forth had gushed the life-giving waters. Overcome by the majesty and glory of the scene, the elders had fallen on their faces to the ground, but as the spiritual waters gushed forth, they realized that the Lord was with them, and that he would satisfy their thirst.

They had been a people perishing for water. Shut in the wilderness there was no escape. No human aid could succeed. They could not go back. To go forward meant death on the burning sands. But before him there on the rock was the glory of God's presence.

In that moment a new thrill of gladness had stirred his heart, and while the elders gathered about him had watched expectantly, he had reached forth his hand and with the rod struck the rock, at the same time calling upon God and reminding him of his promise to send forth a stream of refreshing water from the hard, flinty rock.

From the overshadowing Cloud had gushed the flaming finger of God, and forth had gushed the life-giving waters. Overcome by the majesty and glory of the scene, the elders had fallen on their faces to the ground, but as the spiritual waters gushed forth, they realized that the Lord was with them, and that he would satisfy their thirst.

RIGID INSPECTION OF MEAT CERTAIN UNDER NEW RULES

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson Promulgates Regulations for the Guidance of Packers and Federal Overseers at Packing Plants.

Washington.—Secretary Wilson has made public the regulations under the new law governing the inspection of meat products for interstate and foreign trade. They do not, however, cover the subject of interstate transportation of meat or the microscopic inspection of pork for export. Regulations on these subjects, it was stated, will be issued later.

The general regulations provide that the scope of the inspection shall cover all slaughtering, packing, canning, salting, rendering or similar establishments in which meat or meat food products, in whole or in part, enter into interstate or foreign commerce, unless exempted from inspection by the secretary of agriculture. Under the law the only establishments which may be exempted by the secretary are retail butchers and retail dealers supplying their customers in interstate or foreign trade, but even these classes are to be inspected by the secretary.

Sanitary Regulations. Sanitary regulations require the inspection of all meat and meat food products as prepared, packed, stored or handled to be suitably lighted and ventilated, and be maintained in a sanitary condition. All portions of the buildings must be whitewashed or painted, or where this is impracticable, they must be washed, scraped or otherwise rendered sanitary. All trucks, trays, chutes, platforms, racks, tables, knives, saws, cleavers and all utensils and machinery used in handling meats must be thoroughly cleaned daily.

Clean Outer Clothing. Employees of the establishments must wear outer clothing of a material that is easily cleaned and made sanitary. Toilet rooms, urinals and dressing rooms are required to be entirely separate from apartments in which carcasses are dressed or meats and meat food products are prepared. Managers of establishments will not be permitted to employ any person affected with tuberculosis in any of the departments where carcasses are dressed, meats handled, or meat food products prepared.

Inspection of Carcasses. Butchers who dress diseased carcasses are required to cleanse and disinfect their hands and implements before touching healthy carcasses. Weekly reports on sanitation are to be made by the employees in charge of various departments to the inspector in charge of the station, who in turn must report weekly to the chief of the bureau of animal industry at Washington.

The provisions in regard to labeling carcasses which are found diseased and which have been condemned are also included in the regulations.

For the purpose of enforcing the law and the regulations, inspectors and other government employees under the direction of the inspector, must have access to establishments at all times by day or night, whether the establishments be open or not.

The regulation directs attention to the fact that it is a felony, punishable by fine or imprisonment, for any firm or corporation or any agent or employee thereof, to give or offer, directly or indirectly, to any department employee engaged in meat inspection any money or other thing of value with intent to influence the employee in the discharge of his duty.

Labeling Carcasses. The provisions in regard to labeling carcasses which are found diseased and which have been condemned are also included in the regulations.

For the purpose of enforcing the law and the regulations, inspectors and other government employees under the direction of the inspector, must have access to establishments at all times by day or night, whether the establishments be open or not.

The regulation directs attention to the fact that it is a felony, punishable by fine or imprisonment, for any firm or corporation or any agent or employee thereof, to give or offer, directly or indirectly, to any department employee engaged in meat inspection any money or other thing of value with intent to influence the employee in the discharge of his duty.

Labeling Carcasses. The provisions in regard to labeling carcasses which are found diseased and which have been condemned are also included in the regulations.

For the purpose of enforcing the law and the regulations, inspectors and other government employees under the direction of the inspector, must have access to establishments at all times by day or night, whether the establishments be open or not.

The regulation directs attention to the fact that it is a felony, punishable by fine or imprisonment, for any firm or corporation or any agent or employee thereof, to give or offer, directly or indirectly, to any department employee engaged in meat inspection any money or other thing of value with intent to influence the employee in the discharge of his duty.

Labeling Carcasses. The provisions in regard to labeling carcasses which are found diseased and which have been condemned are also included in the regulations.

For the purpose of enforcing the law and the regulations, inspectors and other government employees under the direction of the inspector, must have access to establishments at all times by day or night, whether the establishments be open or not.

The regulation directs attention to the fact that it is a felony, punishable by fine or imprisonment, for any firm or corporation or any agent or employee thereof, to give or offer, directly or indirectly, to any department employee engaged in meat inspection any money or other thing of value with intent to influence the employee in the discharge of his duty.

Labeling Carcasses. The provisions in regard to labeling carcasses which are found diseased and which have been condemned are also included in the regulations.

For the purpose of enforcing the law and the regulations, inspectors and other government employees under the direction of the inspector, must have access to establishments at all times by day or night, whether the establishments be open or not.

The regulation directs attention to the fact that it is a felony, punishable by fine or imprisonment, for any firm or corporation or any agent or employee thereof, to give or offer, directly or indirectly, to any department employee engaged in meat inspection any money or other thing of value with intent to influence the employee in the discharge of his duty.

Labeling Carcasses. The provisions in regard to labeling carcasses which are found diseased and which have been condemned are also included in the regulations.

For the purpose of enforcing the law and the regulations, inspectors and other government employees under the direction of the inspector, must have access to establishments at all times by day or night, whether the establishments be open or not.

The regulation directs attention to the fact that it is a felony, punishable by fine or imprisonment, for any firm or corporation or any agent or employee thereof, to give or offer, directly or indirectly, to any department employee engaged in meat inspection any money or other thing of value with intent to influence the employee in the discharge of his duty.

Labeling Carcasses. The provisions in regard to labeling carcasses which are found diseased and which have been condemned are also included in the regulations.

For the purpose of enforcing the law and the regulations, inspectors and other government employees under the direction of the inspector, must have access to establishments at all times by day or night, whether the establishments be open or not.

The regulation directs attention to the fact that it is a felony, punishable by fine or imprisonment, for any firm or corporation or any agent or employee thereof, to give or offer, directly or indirectly, to any department employee engaged in meat inspection any money or other thing of value with intent to influence the employee in the discharge of his duty.

Labeling Carcasses. The provisions in regard to labeling carcasses which are found diseased and which have been condemned are also included in the regulations.

ENGULFED BY THE RAGING SEA

IN THE MOUTH OF CROWDS OF PEASANT SEEKERS.

Amateur Fishers Perish on Jersey's Coast by the Capsizing of Two Yachts in a Gale.

Anglesea, N. J., July 30.—Caught upon the tremendous Horeford bar, with an easterly half gale raging and a heavy sea beating down upon the long, finger-like sandpit which splits Horeford inlet, two power yachts were capsized and 15 lives were lost, while from the board wailed agonized crowds looked on, helpless.

Of the two accidents, the destruction of the sloop yacht Nora, Capt. Herbert Shivers, was by far the most disastrous. Of 20 passengers and two in the crew of the ill-fated pleasure boat, but 18 men are known to have been saved.

Of 12 persons aboard the Alvin B. Capt. Birch, but one is known to have been drowned.

The known dead are: Fred Fisher, Manassas, body recovered; Walter Snyder, Philadelphia, body recovered; Jerry Donohue, Philadelphia; unknown body recovered; Herbert Hummel, Lansdale, Pa., body recovered; William Griffith, Philadelphia; John Fogarty, Hartford, Pa.; Samuel Loder, Woodbury, N. J.; John Starkey, Philadelphia.

It was while returning from the fishing banks that the Nora was capsized, and the luckless passengers caught in a tangled mass of cordage and sails, and imprisoned under the overturned yacht had but half a chance for their lives.

Just as the bar was reached a heavy gust of wind that had been blowing struck the Nora. Capt. Shivers threw the boat's head up to meet it, but before she could fully right herself from the gust and accompanying wave she was struck by the following sea and turned turtle.

SLAIN BY FARMHAND
Are Wife and Three Children While Husband is at Church.

Pittsburg, July 30.—Mrs. Richard Pierce and her three children, living near Venice, Washington county, were shot and beaten to death by a negro farmhand during the absence of Mr. Pierce at church. After killing the family he set fire to the house and fled. The bodies were consumed.

Neighbors, who were attracted by the flames, saw the negro going over the hill, heading toward this city. When they arrived at the burning building it was too late to save it, but a blood-stained ax lying in the doorway told the story of the crime.

Pierce was on his way from church, in company with a number of his neighbors, when they saw the smoke rising over the hills which told of a fire. The church is but a half mile from the scene of the tragedy, and the entire congregation hurried to the spot. When they learned the ghastly truth the party of men who had been worshipping but a few minutes before immediately changed into a band of vigilantes, who are now searching the hills for the fugitive negro, determined that he shall pay for his crime with his life, and without the intervention of tardy justice.

Pacific Express Wreck
Skill Landing, N. Y.

The express, Train No. 10, York Central & Hudson River, which left New York at 10:15 a. m., was derailed on the Hudson river near Hamburg, seven miles north of New York. The train ran into a landslide, which had been washed upon the tracks by the heavy rains of the afternoon. The engineer, fireman and one baggage man are reported drowned.

Bonnie Magin in Chicago.
Chicago, July 30.—The mysterious disappearance of Miss Bonnie Magin, a chorus girl, from New York six months ago, was explained by her presence at the auditorium annex in company with John T. Davis, son of Henry Gasaway Davis, democratic vice presidential candidate on the ticket with Alton B. Parker.

An Anti-Greek Demonstration.
Philadelphia, July 30.—An anti-Greek demonstration occurred here. The Bulgarian population took possession by force of three of the Greek churches. Two persons, a Greek and a Macedonian, were killed, and several were wounded in the fighting.

Husband is Held.
Chicago, July 30.—The body of Mrs. Ernestine Voss, 43, was found burned to a crisp in the ruins of her home in the southwestern part of the city. The circumstances of the case have led the police to arrest her husband, John L. Voss.

Praises Roosevelt.
Gadsden, Ala., July 30.—In a talk here Senator Morgan, after reviewing the local political situation, eulogized Roosevelt. The president, he said, brought about a new era in American politics that was attracting the attention of the whole world.

Recklessness Caused Death of Three.
St. Paul, Minn., July 30.—Appalling recklessness on the part of a motorist caused the death of three persons and the maiming of two others. The motorist, a young man, was driving a car at high speed when he struck a group of pedestrians crossing the street.

Murdered Gen. Tropp Was Killed.
St. Paul, Minn., July 30.—A rumor reached press headquarters at a late hour that Gen. Tropp had been killed. It could not be confirmed, but probably is a revival of the false rumor current last week.

Newspaper Men After His Life.
Washington, July 30.—In the opinion of Charles H. Bell, a lawyer of Osceola, Courthouse, Mo., whose facilities, according to the police, are being used by the newspaper men, the lower house of the new government of Washington are determined to have his life.

Five Hundred Arr.
Samara, July 30.—A garrison of five hundred men of the Russian army arrived here today. The garrison was sent to maintain order in the city, which has been the scene of recent disturbances.

Burned the Here from the Shusha.
Tiflis, July 30.—A fire broke out in the Shusha district, burning the houses of the Armenians. The fire was caused by a lightning strike.

Law.
St. Paul, Minn., July 30.—A law was passed in the state legislature providing for the regulation of the motor vehicle industry.

Chief Orthodox Rabbi.
Trenton, N. J.—Bernard L. Levinthal, who for 15 years has been chief of the orthodox Jews of Philadelphia, was elected chief of the orthodox Jews in Trenton.

Pleas for General Strike.
Soochow.—Handbills have been posted here calling on workmen to stop a general strike throughout the Russian Polish frontiers districts. All factories, the handbills declare, must be closed.

Killed in Railway Collision.
Carnegie, Pa.—One was killed, nine were injured and two locomotives were wrecked in a head-on collision between a passenger train and a freight on a branch of the Pennsylvania road at Woodville.

Pleas for General Strike.
Soochow.—Handbills have been posted here calling on workmen to stop a general strike throughout the Russian Polish frontiers districts. All factories, the handbills declare, must be closed.

Killed in Railway Collision.
Carnegie, Pa.—One was killed, nine were injured and two locomotives were wrecked in a head-on collision between a passenger train and a freight on a branch of the Pennsylvania road at Woodville.

Pleas for General Strike.
Soochow.—Handbills have been posted here calling on workmen to stop a general strike throughout the Russian Polish frontiers districts. All factories, the handbills declare, must be closed.

Killed in Railway Collision.
Carnegie, Pa.—One was killed, nine were injured and two locomotives were wrecked in a head-on collision between a passenger train and a freight on a branch of the Pennsylvania road at Woodville.

STATE NEWS

GIRL CRIED
When Separated From Clayer, and Admitted She Loved the Negro.

Louisville, Ky.—When Henry Clayer, a mulatto, stepped behind the bars at the Jefferson county jail he prayed. He realized that he had been saved from mob violence. Clayer was brought here from Chicago, where he had eloped with Ora Gardner, a 16-year-old white daughter of John Gardner, of Irvington, Ky. The two were found in Chicago. Clayer admitted that he enticed the girl from Irvington, where she had been a waitress. The girl was taken to Stephensville, Ky. Her father said that he would place her in a reform institution. The girl cried when she was separated from her father that she loved the negro. J. Y. Layman, prosecutor at Elizabethtown, said that it had been planned to lynch Clayer at Irvington, and that it must not do for some time to take the mulatto there. If Clayer is convicted the penalty is from 10 to 20 years in prison.

FAMOUS BEAUTY
Of Old Virginia Days Passes Away—Home Near Covington.

Lexington, Ky.—Mrs. Howell Lewis Lovell, of Covington, died here at Kenmore farm, the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. Will Sayre. Mrs. Lovell was 75 years old and had been in poor health for several months. She came to Kenmore recently with her daughter, Miss Fannie Lovell, for a short visit, and was taken worse upon her arrival here. Her husband was a well-known business man of Covington, being president of the Lovell Tobacco Works. He died seven years ago. Mrs. Lovell's only daughter, Mrs. Virginia Lovell Hodges, was also here when she died. Mrs. Lovell came from a Virginia family, and was famous for her beauty. She was popular socially in Cincinnati and Covington.

Will Contest the Law Taxing Double Stamp Whisky.
Frankfort, Ky.—The whisky rectifiers took another hitch at Auditor Hager in an effort to get a modification of the form they must report on. Attorney Hough still contended that no report should be made of the amount of double-stamp whisky rectified, but the auditor could not see it that way. It was agreed however that the single-stamp and double-stamp goods might be reported separately. It is understood the rectifiers will decline to pay any tax on the double-stamp whisky, and thus test the constitutionality of the law.

Will Open in January.
Frankfort, Ky.—The board of gentlemen of the normal schools met here today and the two schools at Bowling Green and Louisville.

Found Morphin.
In the Dead Child's Stomach, and Mrs. Griffith is Held Without Bail.

Lexington, Ky.—Mrs. Rita Griffith, wife of Nolan Griffith, charged with the murder of her child, Ora Griffith, was held for the grand jury without bail. State Chemist Peter Aschert, it was claimed, that the stomach of the child contained morphine. It also developed during the trial that the mother had purchased a bottle of morphine shortly before the death of the baby, and fragments of the broken bottle containing the poison were found near the house.